Federal supplemental schedules were used to collect non-population data. These include: Agricultural in 1850 – 1880; Industry in 1850 – 1870, then called Manufacturers in 1880; Social Statistics for 1850 – 1880; Mortality (cause of death) for 1850 – 1880. They cover the twelve months before the official date of the particular census. In 1880, a schedule for “defective, dependent, and delinquent classes” was also taken.
